DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

VOLUME I.

SPRINGFIELD, KY., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1905.

NUMBER 48

MINIMUM PRICES

Reported at Tobacco Association.

Covers Grades of the Product in States Interested—Recommendations Expected to Be Approved.

GREAT RESULTS ARE PREDICTED.

Owensboro, Ky., October 18.—"I believe that the meeting of the National Tobacco Growers' Association in Owensboro will revolutionize the tobacco trade. It may not come in one year or two years, but it is sure to come."

The above was the statement of a prominent tobacco grower to-night, and it reflects the sentiment of the entire delegation in attendance at the national meeting of the Tobacco Growers' Association.

The committee on prices late to-night finished their reports, which will be presented to the convention in the morning. It is not thought that the reports on the minimum prices will be changed in the slightest.

Clarksville, Tenn., has been selected as the next meeting place. The convention will come to a close to-morrow night with an address by the Hon. Olin M. James, of Tennessee. To-night John Allen, of Tennessee, delivered an address at the court house to a large crowd. During the day J. B. Killebrew, of Tennessee, a special government census agent, recently appointed, addressed the convention.

The minimum prices fixed by the committee from the various States follow:

Green River District—Dark tobaccos, grades A, B and C, leaf and lugs, $10; grade D, leaf and lugs, $8; grades O and H, leaf and lugs, $8; all trash, $5. Burley—Leaf, grade A, $18; leaf, grade B, $15; leaf, grade C, $13; leaf, grade D, $11; lugs, grade A, $10; lugs, grade B, $8; lugs, grade C, $7; trash, grade A, $5; trash, grade B, $4.

Henderson Stemming Type; All Tobacco North of Tradewater River—Lugs, grade A, $9; leaf, grade B, $8; leaf, grade C, $7; leaf, grade D, $4; lugs, grade A, $7; lugs, grade B, $6; lugs, grade C, $5; trash, grade A, $3; trash, grade B, $2.

All Tobacco South of Tradewater River—Leaf, grade A, $8; leaf, grade B, $7; leaf, grade C, $6; leaf, grade D, $4; lugs, grade A, $7; lugs, grade B, $6; lugs, grade C, $5; trash, grade A, $3; trash, grade B, $2.

Virginia Tobacco—For Virginia Stemming Grade—Trash, lugs, per hundred, $2; lugs, class B, $5; lugs, class A, $7; short leaf, $8; long leaf, class B, $10; long leaf, class A, $12. Dark tobacco, trash, lugs and nondescript, class B, $5; good lugs, class B, $7; good leaf, class C, $9; long medium leaf, class B, $12; fine long leaf, class A, $16. Bright tobacco, floor scraps, $5; dark lugs, class B, $9; bright lugs, class A, $12. Dark types, class B, $10; bright types, class A, $14; third-grade wrapper, class A, $11; second-grade wrapper, class B, $25; first-grade wrapper, class A, $35.

Wisconsin Tobacco—Cigar leaf tobacco (average), $10. Delivered in bundles (good merchantable condition at warehouse or station in Wisconsin), graded as follows: Northern counties, wrappers or bundles, grade A, $10; grade B, $10; grade C, $8. Southern counties, wrappers or bundles, grade A, $12; grade B, $10; grade C, $8; grade D, $7.

Ohio Tobacco—Burley tobacco, average at farm, $12. Tennessee and Kentucky—Clarksville dark tobacco, average, $9.

The Tennessee committee recommends that each section shall have the privilege of grading and selling in their respective localities.

Fine Stock.

Washington county has the distinction of having won at the St. Louis Fair the "blue ribbon" for the finest Jack and Jennet in the United States. The Jack belongs to Mr. W. S. Gibbs, of Willisburg, and the Jennet to Mr. Mike Makin, who resides near town. When it is considered that hundreds of animals were shown, it must be admitted by all that Messrs. Gibbs and Makin have a Jack and a Jennet that can not be "matched" by any others in this country. The following is the diploma, as issued by Mr. Charles Willis, Chief of the Department of live stock, of St. Louis Exposition:

DIPLOMA.

W. S. Gibbs, Willisburg, Ky., as the breeder of Mikado, 608, awarded the first prize as the best Jack two years and under three, the champion prize as the best two-year-old or under, and the reserve grand champion prize as the best of any age.

A like certificate was also issued to Mr. Makin.

DEATH

Of Mr. Robt. McIlroy, One of the County's Oldest and Best Known Citizens.

Mr. Robert McIlroy, aged seventy-two years, died at his home at Willisburg last Thursday night at 9 o'clock of blood poisoning. Mr. McIlroy had been ill for about ten days and his death was not unexpected. About two weeks ago, while pulling some weeds in his yard, his hand was scratched by a briar. At the time, of course, little attention was paid to such a slight wound, but in a few days erysipelas set in, followed by a severe case of blood-poisoning, from which all realized he could not recover.

Mr. McIlroy was one of Washington county's most highly respected citizens, and there are hundreds of people in the county who are grieved over his death. The deceased was a charitable man, kind and affectionate, and was honored by a host of friends.

Mr. McIlroy leaves a devoted wife and seven children to mourn his death, to whom condolence is extended. Funeral services were conducted at the Catholic church here last Saturday morning by Father Hennessy, and interment occurred in St. Dominic's cemetery.

The deceased was a son of Daniel McIlroy, who came from Ireland to this country in about the year 1840.

At Private Sale.

I desire to sell at private sale, the following: One feather bed, 37 pounds; 1 bedstead, 6 good homemade chairs, 2 heating stoves, one air-tight, 1 large iron kettle, some old cooking vessels, 3 tables and 2 carpets.

W. C. HAMILTON.

Merry, Merry Minstrels.

The "Merry, Merry Minstrels" will be the attraction at the Opera House Friday, 27. It will be the Barlow & Wilson's Great New York Minstrels and a splendid performance is promised. The company numbers forty of the best vocalists and vaudeville stars of the minstrel world, and is accompanied by an excellent band and orchestra. This well known organization comes highly recommended, yet giving all that is new and novel in the line of this latter day minstrel, retaining all the gems of the old style of minstrel, that is so pleasing to amusement lovers of this style. The company gives a grand, gorgeous and spectacular street parade which takes place at noon of the day of the engagement. All the popular songs, dances, sensational specialties will go towards making up an evening entertainment that will be appreciated by the most fastidious.

Stock Sales.

S. M. Campbell reports the following sales for county court day: One pair aged mules, $145, one pair 2-year-old mules, $155, one pair 2-year-old mules, $280, one roan mare, $94, one bay mare, $65, one old horse, $50, one nice 4-year-old combined horse, $125, harness, saddles etc., from $1 up, one nice jersey cow, $35, one nice jersey cow, $29, one cow and calf, $25, one cow and calf, $22.

Annabel Lee.

It was many and many a year ago,
In a kingdom by the sea,
That a maiden lived whom you may know
By the name of Annabel Lee;
And this maiden she lived with no other thought
Than to love and be loved by me.

I was a child and she was a child,
In this kingdom by the sea,
But we loved with a love that was more than love,
I and my Annabel Lee;
With a love that the winged seraphs of heaven
Coveted her and me.

And this was the reason that, long ago,
In this kingdom by the sea,
A wind blew out of a cloud, chilling,
My beautiful Annabel Lee;
So that her highborn kinsman came
And bore her away from me,
To shut her up in a sepulchre
In this kingdom by the sea.

The angels, not half so happy in heaven,
Went envying her and me,
Yes! that was the reason (as all men know,
In this kingdom by the sea)
That the wind came out of the cloud by night,
Chilling and killing my Annabel Lee.

But our love it was stronger by far than the love
Of those who were older than we,
Of many who wiser than we;
And neither the angels in heaven above,
Nor the demons down under the sea,
Can ever dissever my soul from the soul
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee.

For the moon never beams without bringing me dreams
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee;
And the stars never rise but I feel the bright eyes
Of my beautiful Annabel Lee;
And so, all the night-tide, I lie down by the side
Of my darling—my darling and my bride,
In her sepulchre there by the sea,
In her tomb by the sounding sea.

—EDGAR ALLEN POE.

Acquitted.

Mr. A. L. Perkins has received a letter from Attorney Will H. Talbott, at Orleans, Ind., saying that his son-in-law, Lee Kenney, who shot and killed Alonzo Mead at Orleans October 14, had been acquitted by a preliminary court. An account of the killing appeared in the last issue of The Sun, and a prediction of an acquittal was made in that issue. Mr. Talbott says that the grand jury will meet October 30, but it is not thought that an indictment will be returned, as a clear case of self-defense was made out.

The Nebraska Supreme Court sustained the constitutionality of the anti-gambling law.

BRUTAL MURDER

Of a Former Washington County Man in Oakland, Cal.

News has just been received here of the brutal murder of Mr. E. G. Shirley at his home in Oakland, Cal., on the night of October 7. The murder is yet a mystery, though it is said every effort is being made to apprehend the guilty party. On the morning of the 8th the unfortunate man was found near the entrance of a hotel, his head being crushed in several places.

Mr. Shirley was born and reared at Willisburg, this county, and at one time was a stock trader. About twenty years ago he left here and the greater part of this time has been spent in California. For a while he was connected with a private detective bureau in San Francisco. It is thought probably his death is due to a grudge held against him by some crook whom he had caused to be arrested. The deceased was a brother of Mr. J. W. Shirley, of Willisburg.

CIRCUIT COURT.

October Term Will Be Short—No Cases of Importance.

The October term of Circuit Court convened here Monday. There is very little business of importance to attend to and court will probably adjourn the latter part of the week. Judge Thurman's instructions to the grand jury were strong, and as usual, to the point. No cases of importance have been tried, the most of the court's time having been taken up in empaneeling juries and other preliminaries. The following are the names of the jurors:

GRAND JURY.
James Call, Sr., J. F. Head, J. W. Funks, S. C. Martin, J. W. Edwards, John Yeager, C. R. Wheatley, James Moran, B. G. Matherly, Dee Shewmaker, J. Rich Smith.

W. S. Y. Goodlett, Foreman.
PETIT JURY.
Sylvester Smith, A. J. Bottom, H. B. Mitchell, R. B. Blanford, R. A. Wheatley, Joe H. Goode, Wood Graves, William Waters, William Lambert, James Anderson, Thos. H. Pinkston, A. Durr, Oliver Sanders, W. A. Barker, S. P. Baker, W. H. Mulligan, J. R. Thompson, W. A. Smith, C. A. F. Walls, C. F. Bosley, J. A. Fields, S. C. Hendren.

The First Lecture.

The lecture of Mr. Edwin Southern at the Opera House Monday evening was the first of a series which are to be delivered here during the winter. It is very gratifying to those interested in the Springfield Lecture Bureau that hardly a seat remained vacant Monday evening, and that all present enjoyed the lecture. Mr. Southern is an artist and an orator, and his audience was more than pleased with his lecture, "If I were the Devil." People like to hear the truth, even if it stings just a little. Mr. Southern told the truth, told it forcibly, and in a manner which "took the hide off."

Death of a Child.

A little three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Williamson, who reside in the St. Rose neighborhood, died Sunday night of spinal meningitis. This is the second child of Mrs. and Mr. Williamson have lost during the summer, one having died in August, last. The Sun extends sincere condolence to the bereaved parents.

Spalding-Smith Nuptials.

Kentucky Standard: Miss Lucy Spalding and Dr. Edward Smith were married at St. Joseph's church at 5 o'clock a.m., on the 11th inst. Very Rev. C. J. O'Connell officiating.

I have some second-hand sewing machines, $2 up; also have some new machines. GEORGE B. TAYLOR.

STATE NEWS.

Sam Hiale was hanged at Winchester for criminal assault on Mrs. Jasper Case.

W. R. Day, Republican nominee for State Treasurer in 1890, was indicted by the Breathitt county grand jury on the charge of forgery.

Dr. F. H. Clarke, president of the Kentucky State Medical Association, recommended legal authority following examination of all medical practitioners in the State.

Judge Evans, in the Federal District Court, sentenced Howard C. Irwin to three years and six months in the Atlanta penitentiary for passing raised bills.

The Breathitt county grand jury failed to return any indictments as to the murder of James B. Mansour. The report said that the evidence was insufficient.

Circuit Judge H. C. Faulkner, in his charge to the Laurel county grand jury on the lynching of Virgil Bowers, denounced the mob as a gang of murderers, and said they were infinitely worse than the men they hanged.

The committee of the National Tobacco Growers' Association in session at Owensboro, completed its list of minimum prices and will report to-day. The convention is expected to approve the list.

Negotiations have practically been completed for a site within one block of Fourth and Walnut streets in Louisville for a new theater to cost $250,000, and to be one of the chain of theaters being built by the recently organized Independent Theatrical Syndicate.

The present year has been a record-breaker for Louisville as regards the holding of conventions of all kinds. It is estimated that 250,000 strangers have visited the city in the last ten months.

The United States grand jury has returned an indictment against W. B. Smith, former president of the Western National Bank, of Louisville, charging him with making false entries, misappropriating funds and embezzling the funds of the bank in the sum of $198,047.23. Smith is in Porto Rico and his attorney says he will be back to stand trial.

At the second annual convention of the National Tobacco Growers' Association, now in session at Owensboro, President Dayton urged the members to hold their 1906 crop for the prices to be fixed by the convention.

George B. Warner, who was given the death sentence for the murder of Pulaski Leeds, then a commutation to life and finally adjudged insane, escaped from the Western Kentucky Asylum, near Hopkinsville, and no trace of him has been found.

Quite a battle occurred at Campbellville between officers and three men, two of whom are unknown, who were disposing of a barrel of moonshine whiskey which they had in a two-horse wagon, says the Lebanon Enterprise. One of the men on the wagon was captured. The one caught was Doll Bell, a resident of Brush Creek, Green county.

In order to give an additional opportunity to register, the law provides three other registration days. This year these days are the 30th and 31st of this month and the first day of November. If you have not registered, you should avail yourself of this chance. Remember the days and attend to it, if you want to vote in November.

The Louisville Herald says: Frank Hammel, of 1207 Dunesmill street, was shot and dangerously wounded about 10 o'clock last night by George Hammon, his father. The shooting occurred in front of the home of the men, and the boy was wounded in the head and the right leg. The trouble was caused by Frank Hammel, who had been drinking, and when taken to task by the old man knocked him down. The elder Hammel secured a revolver and fired three shots at his son, who ran across the street and fell mortally wounded. After the shooting, the elder Hammel escaped. The ambulance was sent for young Hammel, but he refused to go to the City Hospital for treatment. The wound in the head is directly over the left eye, and it is feared that it will prove fatal.

FRANK WOODS

Dies From Injuries Received in an Unknown Manner.

Harrodsburg Herald: Mr. Frank Woods died Tuesday night from terrible injuries received in a manner unknown. On Thursday night last he was in the Last Chance Saloon on Depot street, and complained of his leg hurting him. When the place closed he went out, and next morning when Ole Carey came down to open the saloon he found Mr. Woods standing holding to a buggy on the street, to which there was no horse hitched. He was shivering, and appeared to be nearly chilled to death. He asked for a drink of water, which was given him. He was taken home and Dr. Forsythe summoned, and it was found that his thigh was badly crushed and shattered, though there were no external bruises to indicate the fracture, which could only be discovered by manipulation. Drs. Forsythe, Wash, Carroll, Price and Witherspoon held a post-mortem examination, and, beside the hip fracture, found that his bladder was badly ruptured. The physicians say that they do not see how he could have received such injuries, unless from being kicked. Some say he might have climbed into the buggy and fallen out of it, but such injuries could not have been received in that way. In his unconscious ravings he said to his mother: "It is strange that Lewis doesn't resent the way these men are treating me." His younger brother is named Lewis. He was a son of Mr. Archie G. Woods and was about thirty-eight years of age, and was an affable gentleman, and had no enemies. Coroner Gibbs will thoroughly investigate the case.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well-known traveling man, who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers, who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it, and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for Coughs, Colds and Croup, it is unsurpassed. For sale by C. J. Haydon, druggist.

Poe Does Not Need It.

The eminent directors whose duty it is to decide what famous Americans are eligible to admittance in the "American Hall of Fame" have decided to leave Edgar Allen Poe on the outside. At any rate Poe failed to receive a sufficient number of votes to be admitted, while others of vastly less fame received a handsome majority. It may be that Poe will be admitted later. But until Edgar Allen Poe is represented by a tablet in the American Hall of Fame it will be incomplete. His name, and his work, too, will be familiar in America long after scores of others already admitted to the Hall of Fame have been forgotten by all save the janitors of that building.

Professional Pride.

"Do professional humorists ever laugh at other people's jokes?"
"No. They never admit that other people can make jokes."—New York American.

Visits Mother's Old Home.

Atlanta, Ga., October 20.—The President-to-day carried out his long-cherished plan of visiting the home of his mother—Roswell, Ga. One of his reasons for coming south was that he might see the old homestead where his mother spent her girlhood and which she left a happy bride. That the visit was fraught with many tender recollections was evident, and as his carriage drove away from the old Bulloch mansion, where his mother lived and married, the President murmured to Mrs. Roosevelt, "I can hardly bear to leave here." The President reached Roswell at 7:30 o'clock this morning, and was joined here by Senator and Mrs. Clay, who were his guests at breakfast. He then entered a carriage and was driven to the mansion. This fine old homestead is now the property of J. D. Wing, a lumber merchant of this section, who lives in it with his sister, Mrs. Wood, the postmistress at Roswell. Here he was greeted by two old servants, who lived on the place during his mother's young womanhood. One of these is "Aunt Grace," who acted as maid to Miss Martha Bulloch, who afterward became Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, and the other is William Jackson, who decorated the mansion on the occasion of the marriage of his young mistress. The President was deeply touched as he shook the hands of these old servants. In company with Mrs. Roosevelt he then inspected the house, calling to the attention of the company many incidents connected with his mother's childhood. Before leaving the mansion he posed with Mrs. Roosevelt for a picture, which included "Aunt Grace" and Daddy William.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had kidney trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have since found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand since, as I find they have no equal." C. J. Haydon, druggist, guarantees them at 50 cents.

A tornado swept through the village of Sorento, Ill., killed four and injured thirty-five people. Forty houses were destroyed.

Refused To Marry Them.

Lebanon Enterprise: Some time ago, William Whitfield, a pauper idiot, who is receiving an allowance from the State on account of his condition, applied to County Clerk Carter for a license to marry Mrs. Mary Nalley. Mr. Carter informed Whitfield that he could not issue a license to him, as it would be contrary to the law.

Yesterday Whitfield and Mrs. Nalley appeared before Judge Cooper and, presenting a license from the clerk's office of Washington county, said that they wished to be married. Judge Cooper, however, refused to perform the ceremony, stating that he could not do so until Whitfield had been restored to citizenship by an order of circuit court.

Both Whitfield and Mrs. Nalley are residents of the western part of the county. They were accompanied yesterday by two men named Knopp and Martin, from Taylor county.

It is understood that the couple applied to the clerk of the Taylor county court for a license and were refused, and then made the trip to Springfield, where they succeeded in slipping up on the clerk at that place, who, of course, did not know the man's condition.

The Molting Period.

"The intent of any assistance offered fowls in casting off the old and donning the new feathers is to put the females in condition to take up the work of producing eggs through the winter months, and by means of forcing the molt this reason is obtained, says Nebraska Farmer.

The method employed is simple in the extreme and along the lines adopted by nature, as seen when one comes to study the matter. Years ago a well known breeder in New York conducted some valuable experiments along this line, and all succeeding experiments have employed the principles laid down in that experiment. Wood is withheld from the fowls for a period of about two weeks, causing the surplus fat on the frame to be consumed. Following this a system of heavy feeding rich in feather forming qualities is employed, and the results have proved very satisfactory.

The West Virginia station gave the system a test with results that were highly gratifying, using a pen each of Rhode Island Reds and White Leghorns, which were placed in a yard 15 by 100 feet, no feed except such as they were able to pick up in the run being given them. At the end of thirteen days they were fed a liberal ration of mash, beef scraps, corn, wheat and oats. The hens ceased laying on the seventh day after the test began. At the end of thirty days they had practically a new coat of feathers. At the end of five weeks nearly half the flock were laying regularly. Other pens of hens allowed to forage and fed regularly throughout the time of the test were only beginning to molt and egg production had fallen to only a few eggs from the entire number daily.

On the farm hens are seen in all stages of the molt from August until December. In fact, hens are sometimes destitute of feathers in the coldest weather.

Hens that do not molt early seldom lay before spring, so it behooves us to try some methods of inducing an early molt.

He Looked Honest.

Caught By Red Ink.

Elizabethtown Mirror: The safe of the Sonora Milling Co., at Sonora, owned by the Nolin Milling Co., was blown open Monday night and $21.25 taken from the vault thereof. The robber effected an entrance into the mill by breaking a window. Both doors of the safe were blown off, and the crackman made his escape from the town. The Nolin Milling Co. offered a reward of $25 for the apprehension of the robber.

Within the safe there was a bottle of red ink, which was bursted by the explosion. The ink was scattered over the money, and when the safe-blower withdrew the money from the safe his hand came in contact with the ink. The ink on his hand led to his detection. Constable Bob Francis, of Upton, and Churchill Patterson, in the employ of the Sonora Mill, discovered a man in a box car at Upton on the following morning, and effected his arrest. He gave his name as George Brown. The tell-tale ink was found on Brown's hand, and on the money found in his possession, which amounted to $21.15, he having spent ten cents for pears.

A Thanksgiving Pudding.

Just shelve yours for a season, while you try this one: Pour four cupsful of hot scalded milk over one and one-fourth cupsful of rolled common crackers, and let stand until cool. Add one cupful of sugar, four eggs slightly beaten, one-half of a grated nutmeg, one teaspoonful of salt, and one-third of a cupful of melted butter. Parboil one and one-third cupsful of raisins until soft by cooking in boiling water to cover seed, and add to the mixture. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake slowly two and one-half hours, stirring after the first half hour of the cooking to prevent raisins from settling. This pudding may, of course, be made a day or two in advance, and reheated for serving.—Woman's Home Companion for November.

Pet Goes Wild.

Harrodsburg Herald: An unusual example of the length of time life can be prolonged without food or drink occurred this week on the Charlie Robinson farm, near town. Mr. Edgar Sanders, who is living on the place, missed a fine hog seven weeks ago. The animal weighed 170 pounds, and as no trace of it could be found when its absence was noted, it was supposed it had been stolen or driven away by accident with some hogs which were shipped about that time. Monday the children of Mr. Sanders were playing near the house, when they heard the grunt of a hog, and upon investigating discovered the lost animal caged in a sink hole. It had been there seven weeks without food or water, except what ran into the hole during rains. The animal was found to be in fairly good condition, in spite of its long fast, when it was dragged out of its prison, but it was stark mad. It had been raised about the yard and was gentle in the extreme when it disappeared, but now it has to be confined, and the sight of a human seems to turn

STRAIGHT TALK

MISS ALERT WATTFULNESS.

Blessings.
How often we are prompted to write our own little experience. And I am doing so, hoping this may benefit others. Only a few days since, driving with a dear friend, we were discussing affairs in general, relating experiences, etc., and at last the subject came up with relative to "blessings." And, tho' both had shadows as well as sunshine, we summed them up and decided that, if we would, like many others, agree, the sunshines of our life were greater than the shadows. So, my friend, count your blessings. I once before heard a discontented voice say, "Mine are soon counted." And I really expect that voice is the echo of many complaining hearts. To me it is startling to note how seldom people are conscious of their actual, inalienable blessings. And yet, how bountifully those simple daily blessings are showered down upon the poorest, humblest, saddest of us all. Those who grow under the burden of multiform sorrows are usually so absorbed in their personal afflictions that they let the scales God placed in every human hand drop from their nervous grasp, and forget to balance the good gifts granted against the seeming evil permitted. Stop, now, and see if any of you can call to mind a single being so superlatively miserable that in his saddest past, most sorrowful present, most menacing future, he can count up so many blessings which demands the unceasing, quivering, eager gratitude of mere recognition. It is a useful, a holy, a heart-expanding practice to sit down daily and ponder over and count up the manifold blessings which are accorded us. Try the experiment, doubter, and see if it be not so. That which we would miss if we did not possess; that which we would find fault, if we were deprived of; that which we enjoy, even tho' unconsciously, justice commands us to class under the head of BLESSINGS. Let us look at a few of the least rare. If the day is bright, the air is bracing or balmy, are not those blessings? You rebel when denied them! If pleasant sleep visited your pillow, is not that a blessing? How you would have murmured had you tossed on your couch all night! If you are free from bodily pain, is not that a blessing? Do you not complain when you do suffer? If you have food and shelter for the day and some hope of it for the morrow, are not those blessings? Lacking those, would you not be wretched? If you have parents, or children, wife, husband, loved friend, to make you rich in affection, is not love a blessing? Would you not be miserably poor in spirit without love? If you feel the refreshing charm of a good look, a sweet poem, a delightful piece of music; if you have listened to an eloquent discourse that has made some grand truth clear to you, if you have enjoyed the society of a pure-hearted or intellectual person; if you have received a passing token of kindness from a friend; a letter from some beloved, but absent one; a bit of advice from some wise counselor, are not all these undeniable blessings? And yet they are but a few—a very few—of the myriad blessings which might be enumerated as so common and so liberally dispensed that we seldom think of giving them their true name, and every hour of our lives pass them by without thanks, without thought, without recognition! So, let us who hope to escape the sin and penalty of ingratitude to Heaven, resolve that one of our daily duties be to seek out and sing out each day's blessings, and engrave them into faceably upon "memory's wall." The very habit of it will multiply their number, as well as increase their value. It will wake some grateful pulse in the most thankless heart, and draw down some ray of light thru the darkest gloom.

The Lecture Season.

At one time the lecture stand was closed to all but the professionally elected, but, thank goodness, 'tis not so now. The only objection we have to it is the selection of the night. You made a mistake, gentlemen, in not having Friday night, if possible, when many teachers from the country could come in, and not on a school-day night, which prevents them from returning to school in time. Certainly this is a very commendable move. What profitable entertainment will be gathered by multitudes from the lecturers of merit! Instruction—and amusement—combined, cheerful and elevating, and leaving no bitter or serious impress on the mind. Equally alluring to the young and the old, and to both sexes, the lecture will stand a formidable wall between the public and exceptionable resorts and recreations. Much pleasant social life will be engendered, and much profitable fare and after discussion of the lecturers and their themes. Better thoughts will be stimulated, and higher purposes conceived. The autumn and winter evenings will pass merrily with the lecture-going, and when the season is over we can well say: "I have had profitable and memorable entertainment." Verily, if the lecturer be equal to the needs of his audience, he is worthy of his hire, and may count the lecture-gone, and when the season is over he can well say: "I have had profitable and memorable entertainment." Verily, if the lecturer be equal to the needs of his audience, he is worthy of his hire, and may count the lecture-gone, and when the season is over he can well say: "I have had profitable and memorable entertainment."

Another Shooting At Balltown.

Kentucky Standard: A shooting affray occurred at the home of John Auberry, in the Balltown section, last Saturday night. According to the meager information obtainable, John Auberry went to the house of Auberry and became disorderly. He was required to leave the house, which he refused to do. Auberry then attempted to eject Culver, when the latter drew a revolver and fired, the charge taking effect in Auberry's right thigh, inflicting a painful wound. Culver then made his escape, and has not as yet been arrested.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by C. J. Haydon, druggist.

years. He won first prize at the New York poultry show in 1903 and won again the following year. He was bred and is owned by George Wolf of Seneca county, N. Y., and is considered by expert judges to be one of the best bronze turkeys ever shown.

Last Hope Vanished.

When leading physicians said that W. M. Smithart, of Pekin, Iowa, had incurable consumption, his last hope vanished, but Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, kept him out of his grave. He says: "This great specific completely cured me and saved my life. Since then I have used it for over ten years and consider it a marvelous throat and lung cure." Strictly scientific cure for Coughs, Sore Throats or Colds; sure preventive of Pneumonia. Guaranteed, 50c and $1.00 bottles at C. J. Haydon's drug store. Trial bottle free.

The Hen For the Farmer.

There is no place where poultry can be so readily, successfully and properly kept as upon the farm, says T. F. McGraw in Farmers Advocate. The hen that will produce the largest number of eggs during the year is the most profitable hen for the farmer to keep. We don't if there could be found 100 bargained or misused hens that could be so handled as to produce a profitable egg production during the winter months. On the other hand, there are thousands making a living from keeping one or more of the standard breed varieties of hens for the production of fresh laid eggs, which readily sell in the city and town markets at exorbitant prices during the winter months. With this indisputable evidence on every side, we are at a loss to understand how it can be possible for any one living upon a farm, and not absolutely on his own light and the profitable production of fresh laid hens in winter by keeping moulted hens.

Insomnia and Indigestion Cured.

"Last year I had a very severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night, and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months, when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullahoma, Ontario, Canada. For sale by C. J. LOST.—A small gold watch, between the old toll-house and the Springfield and Bardston pike and Springfield. Has name, "Miss Annie Cooper" in the back. Return to Sun office and receive reward.

Dr. William H. Crawford, of Lexington, and Miss Nancy McElroy, of Lebanon, were married at the home of the bride last Thursday.

SALE POSTPONED.—The sale of the residence of the late Sydney Green, advertised in The Sun for October 28, has been postponed. Another date will be set and announcement made through the paper.

BOUGHT FARM.—Mr. Luther Burns bought the Gibbens farm, near town, at public sale, last Saturday. Mr. Burns paid $60.00 per acre, and is considered a bargain, as the farm is a good one. Stock of all kinds sold at reasonably good prices.

My advertisement in last week's Sun brought double results expected. Every proposition submitted in the advertisement was filed to the letter and customers were pleased and bought freely. As one remarked "I know a good thing when I see it."

P. J. THOMAS.

GOOD YIELD.—Mr. Walter Humphrey, of Fredericktown, raised thirty-three pounds of Irish potatoes in a hill in which he planted two potatoes. At this rate it wouldn't take but an acre or so in potatoes to make a man the "Potato King" of the world.

HOME GROWN LEMON.—Mr. S. H. Bishop informs The Sun that his wife has grown an exceedingly large lemon the past summer. The lemon measures twelve and one-half inches in circumference. This is outdoing California and Florida, but that's a very small thing for Washington county to do.

COURT DAY CROWD.—An unusually large crowd attended Circuit and County Court last Monday. Considerable stock exchanged hands, and the day was a fairly good business day. Another very pleasing feature of the day was the noticeable lack of drinking, which indicated that the candidates were not "pilled too hard."

MAMMOTH BEANS.—Mrs. Sallie Hall, of Fredericktown, sent two "samples" of her butter-bean crop to The Sun office this week. One of the beans measures twelve inches and the other eleven and a half inches. Both of them weigh just a half a pound. Two beans for one mess—sounds a little queer, but they'll make a potful.

TALENTED.—The Sun has received quite a number of pen and ink drawings, or cartoons, from Cleavie Graves, a young colored man, who resides at Mackville. The work shows unquestionable talent, and if he could be given the proper sort of training, there is no doubt that he would develop into a cartoonist of ability. We will be glad for people to call and see this work. We are told that the young colored man has had quite a number of his cartoons accepted and printed in the Chicago papers.

IT WILL PAY YOU.—It will pay you to advertise in the "Subscribers Free Column." There are five instances, indeed, that an advertisement appears in this column that fails to bring results. Mr. Sherman C. Martin recently advertised for sale, twenty shocks of sugar cane, and he informs us that he sold the cane the next afternoon after the paper came out; and that as many as twenty people came to see him wanting to buy. Try this column with an ad, and you will be convinced that "advertising pays."

GAME LAW.—For the benefit of those who might conclude to "indulge in a little hunt" before the first day of November, we print the following section from the Kentucky game law: "No person shall catch, kill or pursue with such intent, or have the same in his possession after it has been killed or caught, any quail, partridge or pheasant, between the first day of January and the fifteenth day of November of each year." The law protects squirrels and rabbits from September 15 to November 15 of each year.

OLD COPPERS.—Mr. A. C. McElroy showed The Sun, a few days ago, some old copper half cent pieces which are curiosities. One was made in 1804, another in 1851, another in 1828, and another in 1830. On the last named are these words, "half cent's worth of copper." Mr. McElroy also has a cent and a quarter, which is said to be worth considerable. He informs us that Mr. Fred Hagin also has a cent and a quarter. There are not a great many of these in existence now, and they are thought to be worth something less than $200.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.—The Electric Light and Water Company have been having trouble with their engine for several days and as a consequence the street lights have not been on for several nights. As soon as some repairs arrive for the engine we will have "lights to burn" in Springfield. The Sun is not aware of any kick on the part of the people because of the "dark" during the past few nights, but if there is an individual in Springfield who feels that the Electric Light Company here is not one of the very best in the State it is because he knows nothing of the lights in other towns. It is hard to find another town in Kentucky that has a little trouble as Springfield in the matter of lights.

The Enterprise says that Lebanon is to have an ice plant, if the water can be found of right quality and quantity.

A STRANGE BIRD.—Mr. J. F. Cheatham, of Willisburg, captured a bird on last Saturday which is a stranger in this section. It was on exhibition in The Sun office last Monday and attracted the attention of a great many people. From tip to tip it measured about thirty-eight inches; it has a vicious bill and is ready for a scrap at any time. Mr. Cheatham shot the bird, but only produced a slight wound, or in other words, just "winged" it. It was turned loose in the printing office, but became so intent upon fighting everything and everybody that we had to put it in a cage. However, before he could be subdued, about forty people who came in to pay their subscription to The Sun took fright and hastened to another part of the town. The only person "bested" in the round with the "feathered monster," was Mr. Cheatham. In bringing him from his log-cabin to The Sun office he, in some manner, led the bird get in a lick on his nose, which caused the blood to flow freely for several minutes. Somebody suggested that the bird is a lick on his nose, and mistook Mr. Cheatham's nose for a turtle.

Would You Discharge Him?

(From The Sun of Oct. 18)

"If you had in your employ a collector who had, in a few years, collected enough of your outstanding accounts to pay off a mammoth indebtedness for you--say, over $60,000--could you be induced to discharge him and employ a 'new hand at the business,' unless the old employe had been guilty of some flagrant breach of duty? Suppose some fellow should come to you and ask that you discharge your collector and put in his place another man, what would you think of such a proposition? Certainly you would think it an absurd one. That is just what the Republican party of Washington county is asking the people to do when it asks them to vote for its nominees for sheriff."

Courier-Journal: "The Race of the Swift" is by a young Kentuckian, who is rapidly rising into renown. Edwin Carlile Litsay will be remembered as one of the authors who shared the first prize in the Black Cat competition of 1904 and as the author of numerous stories which have appeared during the past few years in the first-class magazines.

This volume contains some half dozen stories of wild animals and birds that for interest, truth and tragic possibilities have never been surpassed. In illustration of this may be mentioned the hitherto published, with the exception perhaps, of the Jungle Books; in workmanship, they show a finish that belongs only to the careful artist of experience and genius.

The stories, as stories, will be read for their own sake; they give, but the discerning reader will not miss the description of nature in her varying moods—beautiful, violent, calm, but always a paramount influence in the high tragedies of the wild things of wood and air.

Some of the stories appeared in Leslie's Monthly and Field and Stream, but three are entirely new. These are "The Robber Baron," a powerful story of a hawk; "The Spoiler of the Fold," and "The Guardian of the Flock." All beat with the pulse of life, and even when actual tragedy does not form the end-story, the reader knows that all will not be smooth sailing. The author's lower animals it is inevitable, and so accepts it.

All Pain is Nerve Pain

Pain is sure to follow any strain or weakening influence upon the nerves. It may be caused by over-exertion, heat, intense mental effort, colds, indigestion, or any cause that depresses, excites or agitates the nerves. So sensitive are they that the least pressure or strain causes suffering. By soothing, strengthening and quieting the nerves, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve the pain.

They are sold by druggists, 25c a box, under a guarantee that the first box will benefit, or money refunded. Never sold in bulk.

Neither Miss Roosevelt nor her father

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well-known traveling man, who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers, who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it, and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for Coughs, Colds and Croup, it is unsurpassed. For sale by C. J. Haydon, druggist.

A Fortune In Duties.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Secretary Shaw and the Collector of the Port at San Francisco have had a load of trouble for several weeks about which the public has known nothing, and it was lifted yesterday when the Secretary was told by President Roosevelt to collect the legal duty on all dutiable articles brought back to this country by Miss Alice Roosevelt. The total of the duty is expected to be nearly $60,000.

The daughter of the President has received during her trip to the Philippines, China, Japan and Korea, many pretty and some quite valuable pres-

Some of the customs officials suggested that Miss Roosevelt ought to be allowed to bring the valuable diamonds, but, inasmuch as she was treated with the honors of a princess; and did much to cement friendship between the United States and foreign countries. The belongings of crowned heads, of royalty and diplomats are thus admitted duty free into the United States.

Secretary Shaw received suggestions until he was almost sick. All that stood out before this official was that the presents had been reported as worth probably $100,000, and if the usual rate of duty were imposed it would cost Miss Roosevelt and her father upwards of 60 per cent., or $60,000.

Neither Miss Roosevelt nor her father is rich, although the young woman is understood to have a modest fortune in her own right.

Finally Secretary Shaw took his burden to the President, and told him about it. "There is only one thing to do," replied the President. "That is to treat my daughter's baggage as you would the baggage of any other private person. She will pay duty on everything that is dutiable."
